Regional Children's Services Planning

Regional Children's Services Plans have been published and the strategies therein implemented throughout the nine Regional Development Commission areas of WA. Each plan provided a regional framework and a range of recommendations to achieve a more strategic and co-ordinated approach to the development of services that supports families and children in regional WA.

The implementation of strategies within the plans is now ending and a State-wide strategic plan is being developed by the DLGC to address high-level issues with Early Childhood Education and Care services.

Education and Care Regulatory Unit

The Education and Care Regulatory Unit is responsible for administering the Education and Care Services National Law (WA) Act 2012 and the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2012 for all approved and proposed Education and Care Services. Education and Care services include child care centres, family day care and outside school hours care. The Education and Care Regulatory Unit:

- assesses, processes and approves, provider, service and supervisor certificates
- provides information to help service providers understand and comply with the regulations
- monitors education and care services to ensure compliance with regulations
- responds to concerns and complaints of non-compliance with the regulations
- and carries out the quality assessment and ratings process

Parenting WA

Provide information and support to parents and carers to assist selecting and accessing children's and early year's services that best meet their needs and the needs of their children. They also work together with parents, communities, service providers, government and business to plan, establish and manage children's services throughout Western Australia. 24/7 telephone support offers information, support and referral service to parents, carers, grandparents and families with children up to 18 years of age. Parenting WA services are free and no referral is needed. Many parents find life with a child a joyful but challenging experience. Children's needs change as they grow and each stage brings new challenges. Trained staff are available to work with parents on specific parenting needs and will help identify and develop strategies to successfully manage implementation in the home. Managing the different challenges of parenting children from infancy and childhood through to teenage years. Understanding the different stages of child development. Information about local community support services. Parenting coordinators, located throughout Western Australia can provide individual parenting discussions, group sessions and workshops.

Women's Information Service

Offers a range of helpful information for women, community organisations, policy makers, students and researchers through a dedicated telephone information and referral service, publications and e-networks. The Women's Information and Referral Telephone Service is staffed by a group of fully trained and dedicated volunteers who respond each year to around 6,000 telephone inquiries from across Western Australia. Common inquiries to this free and confidential service include seeking information and/or referral for health issues, finances, legal matters, counselling and domestic violence. If you can spare some time, why not consider becoming a volunteer?

Finding support for parents who live in a time of rapid change. Children and young people are growing up in a world very different from the world their parents grew up in. It is normal for parents to feel stressed-out sometimes. All parents need support. Every parent makes mistakes and learns through experience. Mistakes only count if you keep repeating them. Appreciate that parenting has its ups and downs and accept that this is normal. Visit www.kidscount.com.au for useful information about parenting.

Child Care Benefit

Helps cover the cost of child care, including long day care, family day care, occasional day care, outside school hours care, vacation care, pre-school, and kindergarten. It may also help cover the cost of child care provided by grandparents, relatives, friends or nannies. The online Child Care Online Estimator lets you make informed decisions and estimate child care entitlements that you may be able to receive. Based on your circumstances, you can estimate a dollar amount for Child Care Benefit for approved child care, Child Care Rebate entitlements, and out-of-pocket child care costs. Child Care Rebate

Paid in addition to Child Care Benefit and covers 50% of out-of-pocket child care expenses, up to a maximum amount per child per year. To receive Child Care Rebate you must first claim Child Care Benefit for approved child care and be eligible for that payment (even at the zero rate). Child Care Benefit is based on your income and is different for everyone. You do not need to lodge a claim for Child Care Rebate. You will automatically be assessed when you claim Child Care Benefit for approved child care. The rebate is then paid to you if you are eligible for Child Care Benefit for approved child care and you meet the Child Care Rebate 'work, training, study test' (or are exempt from it).

Early childhood educators (WA Job Guide)

To become a child care worker you usually have to complete a VET qualification in children's services or out of school hours care. Applicants may be required to attend an interview. As subjects and prerequisites can vary between institutions, you should contact your chosen institution for further information. You may be able to study through distance education. You can also become a child care worker through an apprenticeship or traineeship in Children's Services or Outside School Hours Care. Entry requirements may vary but employers usually require Year 10. Ask your career adviser about the possibility of starting some of this training in school.

Child Wise

@Child_Wise

Any person who believes, on reasonable grounds, that a child is in need of protection may voluntarily report to Child Protection Services.

- You do not have to prove that abuse has taken place. You only need reasonable grounds for your belief.
- You do not need permission from parents or caregivers to make a report; nor do they need to be informed that a report is being made.
- If you made a report in good faith, you cannot be held legally liable - regardless of the outcome of the report.
- Your identity will remain confidential unless you need to give evidence if the matter goes to court. It is rare that this happens.

If you need to report an offence that requires immediate police attention, please call:

Police: 000 (Emergencies only)

Department for Child Protection and Family Support: (08) 9222 2555 or 1800 622 258 (Freecall for country callers)

Children's Week

@ChildrensWeek

A National, annual event held around Universal Children's Day, on the fourth Wednesday in October right across Australia. This week is dedicated to celebrating children and to highlighting their achievements. It's a time to promote awareness of Children's Rights and to remind us of our community responsibility to adhere and advocate for children as citizens, to value our relationships by listening to children and acting genuinely and honestly in response to their needs, ideas and development. Children's Week is an opportunity for the community to engage in a variety of activities that facilitate, support and encourage children and their families to play, learn and grow together. Children's Week recognises the rights of children to play and enjoy their childhood.

Children's Contact Services

Provides details of registered Children's Contact Service providers for safe, neutral and child-focused venues for supervised visits and changeovers to occur between children and their parents and other significant persons in the child's life. Children's Contact Services (CCS) aim to minimise a child's exposure to conflict or unsafe situations when parents are separating or have separated. CCS also work with families to encourage positive interaction between children and their parents and to support the strengthening of these relationships. Over time, and where possible and safe to do so, parents are encouraged to move to self-management of their arrangements for spending time with the child.

Coles Junior Landcare School Garden Grant

Three rounds annually February, April and July. This program aims to get kids actively involved in their environment and enable them to develop sustainable habits from a young age by financially supporting schools and youth groups. Funding of up to $1,000 is available. All schools, kindergartens, daycare centres, and youth groups seeking to educate young Australians about the environment may be eligible to apply. If the group is not incorporated, a partnership must be formed with an organisation that will (and can) accept responsibility for administering the financial aspects of the grant.

Early Years Program

Recognises that a child's early years are their most important. Research shows that what happens during a child's first four years of life shapes how they will develop and feel about themselves as adults. This includes their brain development, social skills, how they develop relationships and their ability to learn.

The Early Years program has applied an integrated and strategic approach to early childhood activities. This has provided the opportunity for agencies, organisations and families to work together to recognise and address the needs of their local community. These partnerships have been successful because they were developed from the 'ground up'. Early Years activities money is available to support community initiatives around the early years.

Foster Care

The Dept of Child Protection provides care for children from birth to 18 yo, for emergency, respite, short, medium and long term care. Respite Program - Respite Carers look after children for short periods of time to give their full time carers a break. They look after children in their own home for a few hours, a weekend or a few weeks. They undertake the same training, assessment and approval process as general foster carers. Home 4 Life is another way of describing 'permanent foster caring' - where a child is placed permanently with the same foster carer until the child turns 18. To become a long term, permanent foster carer or Home 4 Life carer, you need to apply and be assessed by the Department's Fostering and Adoption Services. Long term foster care may lead to a Special Guardianship Order or a Carer Adoption - both provide a child with a home for life. Pre-Adoptive Foster Care - Mainly for newborn babies while the birth parents are considering long-term care options. The period of care ranges from a few days to several months. You need to have had experience caring for a newborn baby, and the main caregiver cannot be in paid employment.

Mental Health Commission HELP and SUPPORT Migrant Information, Living in WA

Private and community based centres are run by qualified staff and are usually open Monday to Friday. All centres must be licensed and are carefully regulated in Western Australia, with strict rules on: the number of children in attendance; running and maintaining centres and; the quality of care and food provided. You will need to arrange enrolment directly with the child care centre. Waiting lists are common due to high demand, so it is important to register as soon as possible. For a listing of Western Australia's child care centres, visit the My Child website. Family day care is care available for children aged from six weeks in their own home. The carers must have a qualification in child care and need to be licensed like child care centres. They must be trained in first aid and have undergone the 'Working with Children' check and have a 'National Police Clearance' check. A maximum of four pre-school age children can be cared for at one time. This service is coordinated by local councils, or private organisations that monitor the quality of care provided.

SIDS and Kids

@SIDSandKidsWA

Dedicated to saving the lives of babies and children during pregnancy, birth, infancy and childhood and supporting bereaved families. Delivering on our vision through world class research; evidence based education and bereavement support; and advocacy. In Australia each year over 3,500 families experience the sudden and unexpected death of a baby or child, either through stillbirth or during the first month of life, from sudden unexpected death in infancy (SIDS or fatal sleeping accidents), SUDC (sudden unexpected death in childhood) or accident. Sadly for many of these deaths there is no known cause. For example, more than half the deaths of unborn babies during the last 8 weeks of pregnancy each year are unexplained. SIDS and Kids works to find answers for parents by funding and supporting vital research into stillbirth, SIDS and safe sleeping practices. Through evidence based community education we aim to prevent these deaths and we advocate for and support bereaved families. SIDS and Kids relies almost totally on the support of the community.

Frequently Asked Questions

I am ready to get back in the workforce... where do I start to find Child Care?

Contact Parenting WA to find out what options are available to you. Parenting WA provides information and support to parents and carers to assist selecting and accessing children's and early years services that best meet their needs and the needs of their children. 24/7 telephone support offers information, support and referral service to parents, carers, grandparents and families with children up to 18 years of age. Parenting WA services are free and no referral is needed.

What types of care are available?

Family Day Care and Child Care Centres – Provide child care primarily for babies, toddlers and children prior to commencing school. Some may also offer places for primary school age children.

Outside school hours care centres and outside school hours family day care – Provide child care for school-age children from kindergarten age. Some services offer places for children up to the age of 15 years and six months.

Crèches, in-home care, nannies and babysitters – These child care centres are not licensed. However operators have a duty of care to ensure children are safe and well cared for.

A new initiative is the Nanny Interim Home Based Carer Subsidy Programme being piloted nationally. <https://www.dss.gov.au/grants/grant-programmes/interim-home-based-care-subsidy-progra>

What benefits am I entitled to?

To find out what benefits you are entitled to contact the Department of Human Services. A full list of contacts are available at:

What can I do if I have a complaint about a Child Care Centre?

The Department of Local Government and Communities is responsible for approving and monitoring education and care services through the Education and Care Regulatory Unit. The Regulatory Unit contributes to the quality of child care in Western Australia by ensuring education and care services comply with the Education and Care Services National Law (WA) 2012 and the Education and Care Services National Regulations 2012. If you have concerns about an education and care service please contact the Regulatory Unit.
